KIWANIANS ADOPT CURB MARKET IDEA FOR THIS COUNTY

Civic Club Also To Publish An Issue Of The Daily

CURB PLAN NOT YET OUTLINED

Kiwanis Replace The Show With Newspaper Publication

Albany-Decatur Kiwanians have definitely decided to sponsor the curb market plan. Kiwanians likewise decided to buy an issue of the Albany-Decatur Daily, selling their own advertising. The latter plan will take the place of the annual show sponsored each year by the club for purposes of charity.

Directors of the Kiwanis club met Tuesday night at the City National Bank to take up the two proposals, deciding to accept both.

The curb market plan was explained previously to the club by Miss Sallye Hamilton, home demonstration agent of this county, in a plea for the club to sponsor the movement which has gained such rapid headway in other cities. Kiwanians were pleased with the explanation of the plan, but the sanction of the directing board was needed. Sanction was given last night.

Though the line of action of the club has not yet been decided upon, it is probable that speakers will be sent to each section of the county, assuring the farmers that these cities are back of the movement from the standpoint of the consumer.

Kiwanians likewise will be called upon to stimulate interest among women's clubs of these cities, explaining the market, its functions and results.

Adopting the annual winter activity for the purpose of raising funds for charity, the Kiwanis directorate decided to purchase an issue of the Albany-Decatur Daily, placing the size at 14 pages for the Kiwanis publication. The date has not been selected for the publication, but it is anticipated that the date will be set for December 1 publication. Eight thousand copies of the paper will be sent to homes in these cities, over Morgan, Lawrence, Limestone and Cullman counties. The Kiwanis club will set its own price for advertising space and sell direct to all classes. Committees have not yet been appointed.

OLIVER TO SPEAK HERE THURSDAY

Congressman to Talk For Cotton Pool In The Valley

Congressman W. B. Oliver, of the Tuscaloosa district, will come to the Tennessee Valley Thursday to throw the weight of his influence in the fight for orderly marketing of the excess cotton.

Congressman Oliver, it was announced here today, will be the principal speaker at the Thursday meeting of the Albany-Decatur Kiwanis club and also will address a series of conferences of business men in the Twin Cities and in Hartselle.

The visitor will explain the proposals for the organization of the cotton pool and for reduction of the acreage given to cotton next year. He will tell why it is advisable for Alabama to follow the lead of other Southern states and to take off the market some 300,000 bales of this year's cotton.

He will explain also why nothing of lasting good will be accomplished by this pooling of cotton, unless it is followed by a 25 percent reduction in cotton acreage next year.

Congressman Oliver, familiarly known as "Buck" to his thousands of constituents in his home district and other sections of Alabama, is one of the most influential representatives in congress from the South and his remarks are expected to be heard with a great deal of interest here.

CLINIC FRIDAY FOR CRIPPLED KIDDIES OF INTEREST HERE

Morgan County Will Be Represented In Huntsville

EXAMINATION WILL BE FREE

Aims and Purposes of Children's Society Enumerated

Parents of Morgan county crippled children today were urged to take advantage of the clinic, to be held for this district in Huntsville on November 5 under the auspices of the Alabama Society for crippled children for the counties of Morgan, Madison, Limestone and Jackson.

The clinic will be in session only one day, beginning at nine o'clock Friday and is entirely free. No treatment will be given, it was pointed out, but examination will be without cost and the Society will undertake to see that the recommendations are carried out.

The clinic will be under the direction of Dr. John D. Sherrill and Dr. Wyatt Roberts, both of Birmingham. Dr. Sherrill is a former Morgan county resident, having lived at one time in Hartselle.

The society has listed already 35 cases from Morgan county, but it was believed there were others whose cases should be brought under observation of the physicians and their parents were requested to have the children at the clinic.

The aims and purposes of the Alabama Society for Crippled Children are given as follows:

1. To seek out the crippled children of the State and secure consent of parents to surgical treatment.
2. To provide the necessary surgical treatment and such appliances as may be required to correct the physical defect.
3. To develop the necessary hospital, convalescent home and other facilities for the care of crippled children undergoing treatment.
4. To provide such special academic and vocational education facilities as may be required for the education of crippled children.
5. To work out an experience upon which to base a sane program for care, cure and education of crippled children by the state.

Pugh Sticks To His Accusations

BIRMINGHAM, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Wiley Pugh, star witness for the state in the trial of former Warden Charles R. Davis, charged with the murder of James W. Knox, a convict, today held his ground under a merciless fire of questions from defense counsel in cross examination.

Pugh held to the main points of his story—that Knox frequently was beaten by and upon orders from the warden, before the convict died in a laundry vat while undergoing corporal punishment.

Cincinnati's City Manager Sees No Harm In 'Bare-Leg' Dance Acts He Informs Pastors 'Who Object'

By International News Service CINCINNATI, Ohio, Nov. 3.—Chorus girls clad in tights do not make an otherwise "immoral" show decent, and there is no harm in "bareleg" dances or acts.

That is the opinion of Col. Clarence O. Sherrill, city manager of Cincinnati, regarding ministerial attempts to "cleanse" Cincinnati theatres of improper productions. Replying to requests by ministers that the city management should act to prohibit objectionable plays, Col. Sherrill voiced the statement that "plays are objectionable because of suggestiveness and that at times tights are more suggestive than clear skin."

THE NORRIS TRIAL SITE IS CHANGED

Fundamentalist Will Be Tried In Austin Says Court

(By Associated Press) COURTROOM, FT. WORTH, Tex., Nov. 3.—Fort Worth has lost the murder trial of its leading fundamentalist pastor. Judge George Hosey of Criminal District Court, after hearing about 20 witnesses testify that Norris could not obtain a fair and impartial trial on the indictment charging him with the murder of Dexter Elliott Chippis, decided to give the pastor a change of venue. He selected Austin, the Texas capital, for the trial.

No evidence was heard on Norris' allegation that a "combination" of politics and religion of the city administration and Roman Catholics had been created to prosecute him, all of the testimony going to the question of alleged wide spread fixed opinions on the case. The judge announced after noon recess that the defense had established its case on the change of venue and that he did not wish to hear any more evidence on the question. Prosecution attorneys vigorously protested that they should be heard on the "combination" charge, and intimated that they wished to defend Mayor Meacham and the citizenship of Tarrant county as they stated the impression had been left that the citizenship was not fair minded, but the judge declined to reverse his stand.

The question of where the case would be sent then became a problem. The attorneys announced at one time that they had agreed on Austin, the state capital, but when it developed that District Attorney Hanger had not been a party to this agreement, and that he wanted a more populous county, the agreement was withdrawn by prosecution attorneys. Hanger pointed out, however, that the defense used only one.

While the jury was being selected, Justice Parker commanded court guards to seize the camera of a newspaper photographer who had been taking photographs. It was surrendered without objections and impounded.

A top surface of stone will be placed on the Morgan county link of the Lawrence highway at an early date and the road prepared for winter traffic, according to word received here today.

The same report added it was unlikely that conditions would permit the application of the permanent topping of asphalt before next spring. Grading on the road is about finished and stone will be put in place within the next few days, it was said. This action is to be taken in order that the road may be made passable for the convenience of the citizens of the two counties throughout the winter.

MRS. HALL CALM AND HEAD ERECT ENTERING COURT

First Trial Of Noted Murder Probe Is Started Today

JURY DOES NOT HAVE WOMAN

Twelve Men Are To Decide Fate Of Pastor's Widow

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The jury for the first trial in the Hall-Mills case was selected today within an hour and a half after court had been opened.

Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, and her brothers, Willie and Henry Stevens, took their seats a few minutes after the court opened. They are charged with the murder in 1922 of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, but are on trial only for the murder of Mrs. Mills, soprano in the choir of the church of St. John the Evangelist in New Brunswick, N. J., which Mr. Hall was pastor.

Mrs. Hall, rather pale but walking with her head held high and her body erect, preceded her brothers as they entered.

Willie Stevens, the eccentric younger brother of Mrs. Hall, watched the examination of the talesmen with apparent nonchalance. Henry Stevens, calm and neatly dressed, stared unconcernedly.

After the jury had been selected Justice Parker dismissed it while she conferred with the counsel. The jury does not include a woman, although Senator Simpson, special prosecutor, had planned to get a woman juror "because she would better understand the workings of Mrs. Hall's mind."

The state used all its five challenges, but the defense used only one.

LAWRENCE ROAD WILL GET STONE

Asphalt Top Likely To Be Applied Next Spring

A top surface of stone will be placed on the Morgan county link of the Lawrence highway at an early date and the road prepared for winter traffic, according to word received here today.

The same report added it was unlikely that conditions would permit the application of the permanent topping of asphalt before next spring.

Grading on the road is about finished and stone will be put in place within the next few days, it was said. This action is to be taken in order that the road may be made passable for the convenience of the citizens of the two counties throughout the winter.

The Morgan county link will connect with the Lawrence county paved highway and, when the stone is applied, will give a hard surfaced highway from Albany-Decatur direct to Moulton.

OUTSIDERS SHOW ACTIVITY AS NEWS OF PLANT SPREADS

People From Outside Ask Information On Conditions

REAL ESTATE TO BE ACTIVE

Many Families Will Establish Homes In The Spring

Activity is already being shown from outsiders regarding the location here of the Connecticut Mills company.

Coming here from other points in Alabama and from locations in southern Tennessee people who have become confused regarding the building date of the new plant have already made inquiry concerning what the proposal embodies, the amount of construction to be underway other than the plant itself, real estate indications and the available positions for various lines of labor.

In the majority of cases these inquiries have been answered by local people in explaining that the Connecticut Mills company does not expect to build a mill "village" and that construction is hardly due before the late winter and early spring months. The plant however is scheduled to be under construction early in January.

It is anticipated that considerable impetus will be felt among the sellers of building materials as well as in the building trade. The effect upon local real estate will be shown within the next few months. Values are expected to show on a slightly upward trend following the start of construction of the plant.

The building of morale in business circles is regarded as one of the heaviest features in favor of the building of the new industrial home. Operation by late May or early June will bring about an increase in spring buying which merchants predict will exceed buying at a similar period in many years.

A general optimistic outlook is seen in every business either connected directly or indirectly with the location of the new industry.

Details of site are still being worked out with the probability that the site will be chosen within the next few days.

Observers refused to predict a growth in population to any great extent, as the result of the location of the plant here, but looked confidently toward a substantial growth with the opening date of operation. A distinct movement from rural sections is expected, bringing large numbers of people into these cities who have been working here and living at points outside the cities.

JAMES INJURED IN FALL FROM BRIDGE

His Leg Broken, Man Rushed To Hospital In Ambulance

L. E. James, worker on the Tennessee river bridge, was painfully hurt and narrowly escaped death this morning when he fell from the temporary bridge structure, breaking his left leg just below the thigh and falling into the water.

Fellow-workmen, realizing his plight, rescued him from the cold water and he was rushed to Benevolent hospital in Brown's ambulance. He was given medical attention by Dr. J. C. Bragg and Dr. J. Y. Hamil.

James was at work on the structure, well above the stream, according to information received by The Daily, and in some manner lost his footing. It is believed that his leg was broken as he struck additional parts of the timbering in his descent into the water. He was pulled out of the river in a short time and sent to the hospital.

Majority Party Still Is 'In Saddle' In The House

ALABAMA SAFELY DEMOCRATIC AGAIN BY A BIG MAJORITY

Only Few Instances Of G. O. P. Triumph In County Races

VICTORY FOR PARTY SWEET

Republican Camps In Several Counties Are Won Also

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 2.—(AP)—Elections returns trickling in from all sections of the state Wednesday indicated that with the exception of a few county offices in republican strongholds, Alabama had once again joined the democratic parade through the solid south.

In the eleven counties where republicans made heavy attacks on the democratic ticket, complete, but unofficial reports indicated that the grand old party went down to defeat.

Here and there republicans won a county office, electing a sheriff in Winston, long their stronghold, and running close races in many other sections.

However, they lost a much coveted plum, the congressional race in the seventh Alabama district. M. C. Allgood, democrat, defeated J. J. Stephens, republican by a good majority. This was the only national or state office that the republicans seriously threatened.

The congressional and state tickets, headed by Hugo Black for the United States senator and Bibb Graves for governor of Alabama, walked into office despite the democratic apathy in voting.

The republicans turned out in full force throughout the northern and central counties, but were beaten with few exceptions.

Democrats were able to batter down the republican sentinels in many counties long conceded as centers of G. O. P. strength. In DeKalb, a full county and state democratic vote was recorded. In Winston, long republican, the democrats were able to name all county officers with the exception of sheriff. In Cullman, democrats were named to all offices, taking from republicans the tax assessor and tax collectorship, one held for 30 years and the other for 18 years.

Reports from St. Clair indicated that the republicans had gone down to defeat, while Shelby, another republican stronghold, was reported in the democratic ranks. Chilton was reported divided with the count incomplete.

There was some fierce opposition to many of the state officers as individuals but all were carried.

ADVERTISING DEADLINE WILL BE SIX O'CLOCK ON PREVIOUS DAY

Advertising Department To Make Calls Day Before Publication For All Display Material For Next Day.

Setting the display advertising deadline at six o'clock the evening prior to publication the next day will begin with this newspaper and the hundreds of advertisers it serves on the evening of November 9.

Advertising solicitors will call for copy, listed items, or other display advertising material on November 9 for publication on November 10. This rule will be effective from November 9.

W. S. Finch, advertising manager of the Daily, said today that he expected to find advertisers in accord with the plan from the very first day. Mr. Finch is now informing the advertising clientele of the newspaper of the various advantages to be derived from the plan to the advertiser, the reader and the newspaper. He is of the opinion that merchants will see the wisdom of the new established

Swanson Hits Republicans Terrific Blow

(AP)—Chairman Swanson, of the democratic speakers bureau, declared early today that "the democratic gain indicated conclusively that fake economy, fake tax reduction, fake farm relief and fake prosperity are rapidly fading and that the people cannot be long deceived by fake pretenses and false promises and that the election results is evidence of the avalanche of disapproval that awaits the republican party in 1928."

EXTREMELY LIGHT VOTE IS RECORDED

Eight Republican Balloons Are Cast At Albany Hall

An extremely light vote was cast in the Tuesday election held in Albany-Decatur, partial returns revealed today. Officials at some of the polling places had not made their reports up until 11 o'clock this morning, according to city officials.

With a low percentage compared to the August primaries, it was shown that eight Republican votes were cast at Albany city hall box, out of a total of over 200 votes cast. Election officials had finished counting at that box by 8:30 Tuesday night. Only 43 ballots were cast in east Albany. Seventy-one votes were cast at Decatur city hall box.

The lightest vote in years was the forecast before citizens went to the polls and the prediction was borne out.

Negro Is Fined On Three Charges

Louis Johnson, negro, said to have been the driver of an automobile, which collided with the automobile of Carl Arantz on Wilson avenue yesterday, was fined by Mayor Nelson in Decatur police court this morning on three charges. The negro was assessed a fine of $50 and costs on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated, $25 and costs on a charge of reckless driving and $15 and costs on a charge of drunkenness.

C. H. Bell, well known farmer of the Austinville section, sent to The Daily office today an unusually good specimen of Morgan county's 1926 corn crop. The stalk about seven feet in height, had eight ears of fully developed corn on the one stalk.

EIGHT EARS

The count in the house, as it stood today with half a hundred districts still missing, showed a net democratic gain of nine seats, not dangerous in itself but likely to give the western republican insurgents the balance of power, should it be much increased.

The off-year set back that so often falls to the lot of the party in power came to visit the republicans in yesterday's election. Although the reversal did not take on the proportion of the mid-administration drubbing encountered by Presidents Taft and Wilson, it cost the republicans some seats in both senate and house, narrowing a margin of control already worn thin by the operation of the insurgents.

Outstanding democratic victories were recorded in New York, which by a quarter of a million, re-elected Governor Smith.

In Indiana it is apparent that the Ku Klux Klan issue, which came into renewed prominence this year before the senate campaign investigating committee, cut sharply into the normal republican majority and that Senator Jim Watson and his running mate, Senator Robinson, were not destined for the easy victory they had expected.

In Pennsylvania and Illinois, the off-year set back that so often falls to the lot of the party in power came to visit the republicans in yesterday's election. Although the reversal did not take on the proportion of the mid-administration drubbing encountered by Presidents Taft and Wilson, it cost the republicans some seats in both senate and house, narrowing a margin of control already worn thin by the operation of the insurgents.

SENATOR BUTLER, COOLIDGE FRIEND, LOSES TO WALSH

Smith Landslide Puts Wadsworth Out Of Senate Seat

MANY STATES STILL IN DOUBT

Klan and Election Expenditures Prove 'Live' Issues

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Insurgent control of the 70th congress became more and more a probability today as belated returns from yesterday's general election continued to trickle through.

The republican majority in the senate has been reduced by six by the democrats, with the insurgents adding two to their number, while that in the house had been decreased by 13 with the insurgents there practically holding their own.

Besides Senator Butler, in Massachusetts, and Wadsworth in New York, republican senate stalwarts to lose their seats included: Wellar of Maryland; Cameron of Arizona; Williams of Missouri and Harrell of Oklahoma.

Senator Ernst is running far behind Representative Alven W. Barkley in Kentucky. More than a score of places in the house still are to be accounted for and the democrats hope to capture at least a few of them. If they do so, the western insurgents, led by the Wisconsin delegation, would be in a strategic position.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The squall that rocked the republican bridge yesterday washed away most of the party majority in the Senate, reduced its margin in the House, and still was giving a scare today to some of the crew of stalwarts.

Senator Butler, of Mass., republican national chairman, succumbed to the surging billow of votes for Former Senator David I. Walsh. Senator Wadsworth, of New York, was buried under the same landslide that returned Al Smith to the governor's chair at Albany by a quarter of a million plurality.

Senator Harrell, of Oklahoma, and Senator Cameron of Arizona likewise passed out of the running. Senator Ernst appeared to have lost in Kentucky and accumulating returns told of the continuing desperate struggle for survival by the republican senatorial nominees in Indiana, Maryland, Missouri, Oregon and Colorado.

If the democrats win four of those seats, they will have a senate majority in the next congress. The count in the house, as it stood today with half a hundred districts still missing, showed a net democratic gain of nine seats, not dangerous in itself but likely to give the western republican insurgents the balance of power, should it be much increased.

The off-year set back that so often falls to the lot of the party in power came to visit the republicans in yesterday's election. ## TODAY 12 Years Ago

R. L. Simpson of the Fifth United States Infantry of Plattsburg Barracks, N. Y., is visiting his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Ling of New Decatur.

Mrs. Graber left Saturday night for a short visit to her brother in Indiana.

Miss Julia Lesser is in Louisville, the guest of relatives, where she will remain for probably ten days.

Little Mary Jervis is ill at her home.

H. B. Cagle is ill at his home on Grant street.

It won't be long now until the world, in speaking of Mussolini, will say "he was a great man."

Paint and powder may only be skin deep, but it usually requires a second look.

An optimist is a man who writes about apple blossoms in November.

Have no fear, nobody ever died from sore throat received while boosting his town.

Two months left in 1926; two months left to make it the greatest year in business history, are you hitting the stride?

Put on your old gray bonnet is the reply of the farmer to his wife when thoughts of fall and winter hats come to mind.

Too bad sleep is a necessity, people who work half the night are generally half asleep the next day.

The early bird slogan doesn't have a thing to do with the head of the house as he arises to tend the furnace.

MAKING A PATH FOR THE HERO WHO IS THE IDOL OF THE CROWD.

Here comes the hero, watch the crowd go into ecstasies, hear them cheer, hear them say to each other, "That is the man—that is the woman," the claimant to fame. Yet, have you thought of the hundreds of things entering into the qualities of heroism of that man or woman?

Take for an instance the capitalist. True, he is a great man, to him is entrusted the handling of hundreds of thousands, perhaps millions of dollars, to him others look to solve great problems, yet he calls for aid when the crisis comes, he has his directors, his advisers, their word goes a long way as the executive starts making his decision.

Take the football player who makes the greatest run and wins the greatest game, bringing fame to himself and his university. The spectators rarely ever see the three backfield men in front of him, sweeping away the encircling arms of tacklers, removing danger that the fleet-footed ball carrier may go on to his goal and path of glory. The spectator does not see that sweating face of the linesman down under the pile of men, the linesman with his teeth set, his arms encircling half a dozen legs, the breath mashed out of him. The spectator sees the winner, the crowd loves the winner, worships the hero.

Did it ever occur to you what goes to make up the hero in a crisis? Is it the man or the woman who rushes into the burning building, plunges into the water? Not at all, it's the man, the woman, the child the hero or heroine is going after. The hero or heroine would be but a fool were it not that there was some goal to attain and the unfortunate one is the goal.

You say that is foolish logic, but it is only another way of expressing appreciation for the hundreds of John Smiths and Mary Jones who make the path of the hero and heroine possible. Those little people who go their way without a share of the laurel wreath, without notice from the public and make the world a better place in which to live, unassuming little souls who make their way quietly and without notice from the throng.

GETTING READY FOR THE CURB MARKET OVER THE COUNTRY.

From a production standpoint the curb market proposed for opening in Albany-Decatur in February is coming along in splendid style, county farm and home demonstration agents are working rapidly and earnestly in taking the message to the producer that Albany-Decatur people are anxious to become greater users of Morgan county grown products. The farmers' response will be seen on the occasion of the first market day in February when he comes to these cities with his wagon of truck, the product of winter toil.

It's a new endeavor for the farmer, something he has not known before, not that he isn't acquainted with the growing of crops in the winter, nor that he is not familiar with the worth of a winter garden, but never before has he known a public to ask for Morgan county products. Therefore, he is more or less skeptical of the result. The county farm and home demonstration agents are doing their work well, what is going on in these cities from a consumer standpoint? What effort is being made? Are you keeping up with the articles prepared and sent to this newspaper by these farm workers, telling you that the producer is getting ready, telling you how the producer is preparing? Are you talking the curb market with your friends, your neighbors? Are you preparing to buy these Morgan county farm products, prepared to show the farmer that if he is willing to grow at a risk that you are willing to buy the best products obtainable for the money?

Two factors are necessary in the perfection and success of the curb market plan, first the Kiwanis club must get solidly in behind the movement, secondly the women's clubs of these cities have a vast field ahead of them in buying these products. The Daily confidently expects both organizations to help the farmer go into business for himself. If you desire to really see the curb market crop out then get ready now to help this curb market toward success. The perfection of the curb market idea is just as good as construction of factories, perhaps better, for the market is going to provide a co-mingling of people of all classes, letting them in on the secret of co-operative effort, allowing each to profit by the work of the other. The sooner we get down to brass tacks on this market plan the sooner are we going to be assured that the cities are actually offering the farmer something for his visit here. We all want the farmers here, this is a method to bring him.

THE READER LIKES SENSATIONALISM, SO DOES THE NEWSPAPER.

Have you ever stopped in a newspaper office at the time the "big" news of the day was breaking? Have you seen the forms of the news men bent over their task, framing sensational headlines for sensational stories which that man has learned to "play" above the ordinary news of the day? If you haven't you have missed a lot, you wonder at the imagination of the man as he writes his mind upon copy paper and sends it to the linotype machines and hence to the reading public.

Watch the newspapers with this Hall-Mills story, a story of four years ago with the elements of good newspaper material. Watch the public raise a howl if the newspaper does not have something to say of that trial away off in New Jersey where the name Willie Stevens doesn't mean anyone to Alabamians than the name of a Persian rajah.

Watch the public follow the Norris case in Texas, a preacher never heard of here other than in a sensational light, a man who forgot the ten commandments though he preached them from his pulpit, a man who took a life and now is receiving the plaudits of thousands of sympathizers, because people like to see one of the ten commandments broken, or is it because Norris' life has been told by some ambitious news writer who has obtained the inside information and played upon the sympathy of the crowd?

Play a story of nominal construction, write an editorial about the Armenian, mention questions of direct interest locally and the response is usually slow, yet take another vein of thought and write upon a murder which happened four years ago in a New Jersey town the most of us never heard of and watch the response. It is a failing of the human family to become interested in the morbid and newspapers are interested to a like degree because newspaper men are as human as the rest of the family, because they know "big" news must be played correctly when it does break. It's much like business fields, taking the opportunity when it is presented and pressing the advantage until the orange is squeezed. Get results while results can be obtained, or you may wait too late is the philosophy of the business man, the newspaper man and the general public.

NATIONAL CITY BANK SEES A CONTINUANCE OF BUSINESS.

Continuance of the present level of business, that existing in October, is the trade outlook as seen by the National City Bank of New York in its regular monthly trade observation. Considerable concern is shown for the future in the following article from that bank:

"The state of trade has continued good through the month of October, and predictions that activity will hold over the balance of the year are now generally accepted without qualification. Records of factory output, consumption of electric power in industry, and reports on employment all give evidence of a level of manufacturing activity as high, if not higher, than a year ago. Building construction of all kinds is still going forward in large volume, while bank clearings, railway traffic, and returns on retail trade bear witness to a heavy movement of goods through the channels of distribution.

"Despite this very satisfactory showing for current trade some uncertainty is expressed as to business prospects after the turn of the year. The fall in the stock and cotton markets have again placed the business situation under scrutiny and raised questions as to how much longer the present pace can be continued without some interruption. Building, though continuing at high levels, can hardly be expected to expand further, and may undergo some recession, competition in the automobile industry is becoming more severe and the steel industry instead of showing the usual autumn expansion, is experiencing some falling off in activity. So important are these industries in our present business situation that any possibility of decline in their activities naturally injects an element of doubt into the whole picture.

"With cotton selling 8 cents a pound lower than a year ago, and considerably below estimated costs of production, it is evident that the grower has been hurt and the purchasing power of the South as a whole affected. Railroad and other agencies handling the crop should benefit from the larger physical movement, but trade generally may suffer from smaller incoming traffic to the South from other sections of the country. This situation, plus the possibility of something more than a seasonal recession in building and automobiles, are unfavorable elements in the general outlook. They involve changes which necessarily disturb the equilibrium of business and create the need for some readjustment, and readjustment on a large scale is difficult to accomplish without friction.

"Until the force and direction of currents now in motion can be measured more accurately, predictions as to future business must be subject to so many qualifications as to be of doubtful value. During the past three or four years we have been remarkably successful in preventing prosperity from running into the usual excess and collapse, but even in this period we have not been free from times when we had to slow down for a breathing spell before going ahead again. At such times the vast amount of construction work going on throughout the country has been the great sustaining factor, the influence of which has thrown business back into its stride and carried it on to new heights of prosperity. Should it prove to be that the country's building requirements are satisfied, business will have lost sustaining influence which it will have difficulty in replacing.

The observations of the National City Bank are substantiated by the finding of local merchants concerning trade channels for the month of October. Albany-Decatur merchants reported, almost without exception, that business was on the upgrade through the month.

Smoke Waste To Be Studied When Soft Coal Congress Meets The 15th

"Make Soft Coal More Valuable," Is Key-note of Congress To Meet In Pittsburgh On Nov. 15, Says President Baker

By CARL L. TURNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PITTSBURGH.—"Make soft coal more valuable" will be the keynote of the International Conference on Bituminous Coal scheduled here for November 15-18, President Thomas S. Baker, who called the conference, declared.

Pointing out that the huge columns of smoke rising incessantly from the stacks of the nation's thousands of industrial plants, represent the waste of untold wealth, President Baker said most of the waste could be saved by first treating the coal to extract petroleum and by-products.

On the other hand, he said there is an abundance of coal deposits in this country, enough to last for years, and investigations might show that the cost of treating coal to secure oil and by-products is too great to make it worth while to subject every ton of coal to a distillation process.

New Soft Coal Uses

The recent case produced by the report of the Federal Oil Conservation Board that only a six-year supply of petroleum remains in the proven sands of the United States has, however, added momentum to interest in the coming conference, because of the possibility that soft coal might be employed as a source for gasoline.

The manufacture of fuel oil from coal is one of the most important problems to come before the conference, according to present plans. Several eminent European experts of the manufacture of fuel oil from coal will tell the conference of their country's progress in solving that problem. The conference will bring together for the first time, it is believed, three outstanding European leaders in coal research, Dr. Friedrich Bergius and Prof. Franz Fischer, of Germany and Gen. Georges Patart, of France.

Experts to Attend

Bergius, inventor of the Bergin method of producing oil from coal, is considered the world's leading authority on that problem. Fischer, who is director of the Institute of Coal Research at Mulheim-Ruhr, has produced methanol, synthol and a substitute for benzine from coal. General Patart, in charge of the manufacture of explosives during the World War, invented a process for making methyl alcohol from coal.

President Baker announced emphatically that labor problems, mining and engineering problems, and geological question will not be included in the agenda. The express purpose of the conference is to consider new uses for bituminous coal and to present the results of recent investigations of coal that are concerned with improved methods of utilization and combustion.

AVOID GALL-STONES BY RIGHT LIVING

Tight Lacing, Overeating and Worry Among the Causes of this Painful and Dangerous Affliction of Middle Life.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

OUTSIDE of the simple ailments of mankind we hear more about gall-stones than of almost any other trouble. Hardly a day passes but we read about some prominent persons who have been operated upon for the removal of gall-stones.

The gall bladder is a pear-shaped and pear-sized body, closely associated with and attached to the liver. The narrow duct, called the cystic duct, of the liver and the cystic duct join, forming another and larger passageway, called the bile duct or the common duct. This opens into the intestinal tract.

It will be seen that the discharges from the liver and the gall bladder flow into the common duct and in a common mixture reach the intestines. Likewise, anything passing from the intestines up the common duct may pass into the liver, or switch off through the cystic duct into the gall bladder.

The bile in the gall bladder offers an ideal home for the growth of germs. It has the fluid contents, the warmth and the darkness, all the conditions favorable for the multiplication of germs.

Not only is the gall bladder an ideal place for germs, but as a matter of fact germs do reach this friendly location. The pus germs, the germs of pneumonia, of dysentery, of typhoid—all or any of these may be found in diseased gall bladders. The bile is composed of several ingredients, including one which the scientists call "cholesterol." This appears like fine granulated sugar—it is white and glistening and is found in crystals.

Cholesterol is taken from the blood and if the liver and gall bladder are in normal condition, the quantity is a matter of no concern. But if the gall bladder is irritated or disturbed, it becomes congested. That is, more than the required amount of blood is called there.

Long continued congestion is but the first step towards inflammation. This means still more blood is crowded into the vessels of the gall bladder. All the time cholesterol is being taken from the blood. The more blood there is the more cholesterol.

You know that happens if you have a bottle containing a strong brine or strong sugar solution—some of the salt or sugar deposits on the cork and neck of the bottle. The same thing occurs in inflammation of the gall bladder. The excessive quantities of cholesterol deposit around any rough or convenient core. A germ or group of germs offer a splendid core or nucleus for the accumulation of cholesterol. More layers are added until the mass is like a grain of sand. More and more layers cause its growth until there is a small stone and after a while a large one.

There may be just one gallstone, but if the conditions are favorable into office by the democratic landslide that engulfed the state with a force that was unexpected. Opposition to Senator-elect Black and Governor-elect Graves was negligible, while United States democratic nominees for the house of representatives were elected.

John McDuffie, first district; J. Lister Hill, second; Henry Steagall, third; W. B. Bowling, fifth; W. B. Bankhead, tenth; all unopposed, were elected. Lamar Jeffers, defeated O. H. Reynolds in the fourth; W. B. Oliver defeated C. M. Ayers in the Sixth; E. B. Almon defeated Robert M. Sims in the eighth and George Huddleston defeated Frank H. Lathrop in the ninth.

Alabama reported no upsets. Democrats went into office by strong majorities.

In offering Mr. Brisbane's daily editorials The Daily does not necessarily concur with his opinions, but offers them as the sentiments of the highest paid editorial writer in this country.

CAN a beaten prize fighter come back? Jack Dempsey, directed by Tex Rickard, will try to answer "yes" in another fight with Tunney. The fight will be profitable, and for Dempsey to win it would mean a third fight and more profits.

But the real answer to the come-back, mental or physical, is NO. You can put a new man-spring in a watch, but not in a man. You can renew the vigor of a worn-out and tired-out muscle, but men fight with their nerves, not with muscles. Once the nerve, mental or physical, is gone it does not come back.

Henry the Second of England, beaten, turned his face to the wall, said, "Shame on a beaten King," and died. That's the wise course.

THE Rev. Dr. Hall, whose murdered body was found beside that of his choir singer, Mrs. Mills, spoke of himself in letters to that lady as "Your Babykins." That sounds even worse than the "little language" that made the great Dean Swift seem silly.

Middle-aged gentlemen, clergymen especially, referring to themselves as "babykins" when writing to ladies in their choir, may expect trouble. That particular "babykins" tragedy is one of the most dreadful in all records of jealous crime.

That the man and woman should have been shot dead is part of the regular procedure. But that the woman should have had her throat cut and her tongue cut out with a pair of shears after she was dead seems unbelievable.

Rightly or wrongly, the world will say "That was a woman's work."

WOMAN or man, everybody will know that it was the work of jealousy. In hellish hatred and cruel plottings, jealousy inspires the very worst. Let him beware who invites or risks that hatred.

SLOWLY the United States, like a child taking its first steps, feels its way in the world of flying.

The Denver Post announces the establishment of the first flying route connecting the United States with a foreign country. The Colorado Airways, Inc., will carry mails and passengers between Denver and Mexico City connecting with Mexican flyers at El Paso.

TO send a letter from Denver to Mexico City and get an answer now requires 21 days. The air service will cut that to three days.

MEXICO CITY and Denver planes will stop for passengers and mail at Leon, Agua Calientes, Torreon and Juarez in Mexico, at El Paso, Albuquerque, Santa Fe, Las Vegas, Raton, Trinidad, Walsenburg, Pueblo and Colorado Springs. They will fly on beyond Denver to Cheyenne to connect with United States post office air lines East and West.

IT is said that if President Coolidge refuses to accept a re-nomination in 1928, Secretary Hoover has been chosen by the administration in Mr. Coolidge's place.

It is hard to understand why President Coolidge should refuse a second electoral term, which at present seems to be his, if he wants it.

But the Hoover suggestion is interesting.

WHILE waiting for the President to make up his mind Secretary Hoover is hard at work all over the country. It can be said of him that he occupies himself earnestly with the national problems from the Colorado dam project to the Eastern and Mississippi Valley canal project.

DR. ROBERT A. MILLIKAN, head of the California Institute of Technology, has made further studies of the Millikan ray in the Andes Mountains.

There is no question as to the existence of these rays' terrific power. True "cosmic rays" are bombarding the earth from every direction. Professor Millikan says they prove "their universality of direction," flowing through the universe like a great wind blowing from all directions at once.

Although a very short ray, the Millikan ray is more powerful than any other we know. A few inches of lead will stop X-rays, the Millikan ray will pierce six feet of lead.

In 1900, chemists believed that practically everything important that could ever be known to chemistry had already been discovered. Now every student knows that since 1900 chemists have added to their knowledge infinitely more than all the knowledge gained before 1900.

The Millikan ray perhaps is part of the real cosmic knowledge in which we have not yet taken the first step. We still take Newton's law of gravity with the hypothetical "ether" that his law requires, and with it the theory that to send our earth going around the sun it must first have been "thrown from the hand of God." We are approaching more exact scientific explanations.

Alabama Talk

Declaring that "the hysteria about cotton which is sweeping over the South, and from the South to the country-at-large, is as unjustified as was the wild movement in 1914, to pose the South as a beggar, beseeching everybody in the country, to 'buy a bale of cotton to save the South from bankruptcy,'" the Manufacturers Record holds that the present depression in cotton will prove a blessing to the South.

The Gadsden Times lists some of the facts on which the Manufacturers Record bases its optimism as follows:

The total value of the South's agricultural products in 1925 was $5,855,000,000, of which only $1,600,000,000 represented cotton. This section produced 38 per cent of the aggregate crop values of the nation last year.

The total value of its manufacturing output in 1923, the last census year, was $4,550,000,000 with over $1,600,000,000 from its mines and quarries, covering only the plants that produced over $100,000 annually, a total of manufacturers and mining of over $11,000,000,000, or nearly double the entire value of its agricultural products and nearly four times the value of its cotton crop.

The Record's idea it that the present slump in cotton will serve the following three purposes:

It will teach the cotton growers that they cannot concentrate on cotton and live upon foodstuffs produced in the West.

It will turn the thought of the South to diversified agriculture and industrial development.

It will show the world that the South is not dependent upon cotton.

The Gadsden Times says "there is a lot of hard sense in what the Record says, and we might as well gather from it what encouragement we may."

Beyond any question there is a lot of hysteria over the present cotton situation. The fact that Southern bankers and business men are leading Southern cotton growers and cotton dealers are working earnestly and untidily to relieve the situation and to prevent a similar one next year, is evidence that the South is not discouraged, but is determined to solve the problem in a practical business-like way. There is no need for alarm; no call for charity for the Southern farmer is justified and no necessity has arisen for urging firms and corporations to buy cotton simply as an act of charity to the farmer.—Anniston Star.

Birmingham Will Manufacture Gun

BIRMINGHAM, Nov. 3.—(AP)—

The latest invention for defense against modern warfare's aerial attacks, anti-aircraft artillery, fire control mechanism, which it is said has the power to "lay" gun-fire on airplanes neither seen nor heard, may be manufactured at Birmingham. This announcement comes from Capt. C. H. Menger, executive chief of the Birmingham Ordnance District.

Orders for the machines, which cost from $10,000 to $15,000 each, will be placed with a Birmingham manufacturer if a plant sufficiently equipped to construct them is found. Preference will be shown Southern manufacturers if capable plants are found, by army officials in order to stimulate interest among the manufacturers of this section in such projects. The first order will demand five or six machines, Captain Menger said.

It took five years to perfect the mechanism that automatically fixes the gun on the unseen target. Two years were devoted to the devices, controlled by the automatic range finder, which manipulates the gun, counteracts the recoil and regulates the sighting of the weapons which are reputed to fire 30 times a minute.

RUTHALIAN CLUB.

The Ruthalian Club met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. A. M. McGlathery as hostess. Her home was made attractive with a profusion of fall gift flowers.

Mrs. W. P. Baugh, vice-president, presided at the business session and Mrs. Frank Duffy was elected treasurer to fill the place left vacant by the resignation of Mrs. C. H. Eyster. Roll call was responded to by scripture verses on "Prayer."

Mrs. A. C. Perkins gave an outline of the book of Joshua, one of the books of the Bible to be studied by the club this year and Mrs. W. A. Schafer read an interesting paper on the "Life of Joshua." Mrs. A. M. Richards added much pleasure to the meeting by playing Lindbergh's "Rustle of Spring." Mrs. Bartee, of Huntsville, was a guest of the club.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON BRIDGE CLUB.

Mrs. E. N. Penick was hostess to the Tuesday Afternoon Bridge Club this week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. T. M. Jones, Jr., on East Vine street with one guest, Mrs. Eugene Morrow, enjoying the games with the club members.

The top score trophy was won by Mrs. Penick and the second prize by Mrs. Morgan Stickney.

MRS. MAY CLUB HOSTESS.

The Tuesday Club met with Mrs. H. H. May on Tuesday afternoon, and she had one extra guest, Mrs. Dixon, of New York City, who is visiting in her home.

A lovely salad course was served at the conclusion of the bridge games. At the latter, Mrs. Russell Green made highest score and received the club prize, silk hose, and the hostess presented Mrs. Dixon with a pretty handkerchief as a souvenir.

Rubbing Spiced Perfume Into Skin New Fad Of Hollywood Film Stars

By THOMAS R. CURRAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. — Sitar Begherwan Elar Singh has introduced oriental perfume into Hollywood.

Movie actresses no longer spray their fragrance from atomizers; instead they rub strange highly scented, weird perfume into the skin.

"I teach the stars how to wear perfume," the dream-eyed Hindu said softly. "Perfume should be placed on the skin and not on the clothing."

"Moda Joseka is ideal for Corinne Griffith," the Hindu explained. "It is heavy and carries with it the memory of happy times. The name in English is 'Mixture of Love.' Lila Lee, although her personality is not similar to that of Miss Griffith also wears it well."

Women with full mouths, large eyes and lithe, buxom figures should depend upon the Lotus for added charm, according to Sitar. "Belle Bennett always wear it," he sighed.

Alice White, First National feature player, like Clara Bow, should wear Turkish Keora. Keora, the great lily plant of India, near which the king cobra sleeps, is preserved for women through perfume.

Anna Q. Nilsson wears a blend of five flowers with a sandalwood base, Singh explained, because although she is purely Nordic, she has a dash of oriental temperament.

"What is your favorite?" he was asked.

"This, which I call Patchouly," he replied showing a phial. "It has no English name. Auburn-haired women, blondes and those with light brown hair are wild about it. It is so mild, but it has a trace of spice."

Singh then gave a few secrets. Blonde girls, with thin lips, large eyes and small noses, should wear light perfumes, because the tissue over the bridge of their nose is thin and heavy perfumes unconsciously often saddens them.

Prunettes with vivid coloring should wear perfume cut by three parts of alcohol to one part oil, so that it be heavy. Attar of roses was recommended.

Titan-haired women should blend flowers with spices varying the percentage according to temperament. Phlegmatic women need spicy odors to enhance and to complement their charm.

Heretofore, women have, in the main been guided in their selection of perfume by their own likes in the matter of scent. Now they are having odors "tailored" to fit their type and personality.

"It is a grand and glorious feeling to know that there is one medicine that you can depend on when you get sick and know that it will fix you up in a very short time. It won't make you sick while you are taking it. It does not have any bad after effects and it certainly makes you feel like a different person after taking a few doses. That medicine is Herb Juice. I speak from experience and everybody who has taken it will agree with me."

Mr. J. S. Faucett of 836 Decatur avenue, Birmingham, Ala., made the above statement to the Herb Juice man a few days ago. Never a day passes that some one does not come in to see the demonstrator and speak a good word for Herb Juice. Everyone who takes it is a booster. Mr. Faucett continued his remarks:

"I was dreadfully constipated and felt dull and tired out all the time. Constipation can do more to wreck a person's general condition than any other one trouble. I soon got so that I could not eat without suffering from indigestion. It was to be expected. Any one who was clogged up as I was could not be expected to digest food. I felt so bad I could not sleep or rest at night, and lost eight pounds in weight and much strength. Through the papers I learned of Herb Juice. It seemed to have helped so many people that I saw no reason why it should not help me also. I bought a bottle and that was my first step towards recovery. I have had a thorough cleaning and consequently feel better and have been relieved of constipation. I have also given your wonderful Herb Juice to my family as a laxative and purifier, with the very best results. Herb Juice is a laxative that is most effective but it is not unpleasant to take, has no bad after effects and builds up the whole system. It is a splendid tonic as well as a laxative. I am in a good physical condition and intend to stay that way with the help of Herb Juice. I cannot recommend it too highly."

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified croscote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and seals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, croscote is recognized by highest medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to croscote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the croscote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, croupitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Judge Hosey said he did not want to send it to San Antonio because of the large Catholic population there which might be in injustice to Norris and that he had heard Norris had experienced trouble in Dallas and Houston and that he would rather select some other place.

The rooms were inviting with autumn leaves and flowers. A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the decoration and refreshments. Each merriment was occasioned by stunts, games and contests. Mrs. Philpot and Mrs. Roberts were the prize winners in the contests.

Those enjoying this hospitality were Mesdames John Irwin, Jeff Philpot, H. H. Ash, James Pepper, P. G. Free, Monroe Looney, Herman Roberts, O. E. McCathern, A. G. Roper, Clarence Clark, Hubert Owens, Hollis Johnson, Bettie G. Crow, Estelle Crow.

Mrs. A. G. Roper enlivened the occasion with piano selections.

Mrs. Charlie Hubbard and Mrs. Ruben Roberts were the week-end guests of Mrs. Lawrence Pepper in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Meadows motored to Athens Sunday.

Eleanor Bussey motored to Athens Monday on business.

Mrs. W. B. Barksdale who has been visiting her daughter Mrs. Meadows has returned to her home in Athens.

Mrs. J. T. Lane entertained on Saturday night with a Halloween party. A variety of Halloween decorations were in evidence throughout the home. After a number of interesting games were played refreshments were served.

Rev. J. T. Lane, Methodist pastor, closed his series of messages to his congregation Sunday evening for the conference year.

Ben Roper is ill at his home.

WILL HALL-MILLS MURDER TRIAL SOLVE OLD MYSTERY?

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 3.—Who killed the Rev. Edward W. Hall, of New Brunswick, wealthy and respected rector, and his sweetheart, Mrs. Eleanor Mills, choir singer in his church? And why?

These are questions that have been agitating the authorities, the press and the public, more or less ever since the crime was committed—the night of September 14, 1922, when the bodies of the pair were found lying side by side under a crabapple tree in a "Lover's Lane" on the outskirts of the town in which they lived.

From that date until this, investigators and others interested in the baffling mystery have puzzled over the answers to questions such as these:

Who Planned Murder?
Who conceived the murder—or was it premeditated?

Whose revolver or revolvers were used?

What weapon was used to gash Mrs. Mills' throat after she had been shot through the forehead? Was it a cleaver, razor, butcher knife or saw?

How did the love letters found at the scene get there?

What motive did the slayers have for leaving the letters found at the scene?

How many automobiles were there at the scene, two, three or four? Whose were they?

Although the murders were committed on the night of the 14th—a Thursday night—the bodies were not found until thirty six hours later. Whether the place where the bodies were found was the actual scene of the murders has been a moot question.

The bodies were laid out carefully, the authorities said immediately after their first investigation.

assets of these agencies and institutions. The P. T. A. enables the teachers' point of view in regard to the school and its activities and also enables them to learn something of the home environment of the pupils. On the other hand, the parents are given an opportunity to observe the work of their children and become more intimately acquainted with the teachers.

Through the efforts of the Priceville P. T. A. over eight hundred dollars worth of equipment was added to the school last term; a teacherage, which cost approximately two thousand dollars, was erected during the summer. Greater things are expected in the very near future—an addition of two large rooms, laboratory and domestic science equipment. They hope to have their children finish high school in a comparatively short time.

at De Russay's lane—the scene. To some detectives this fact indicated that the bodies were brought to the lane in some vehicle and lifted out onto the ground. A different version was given, however, by the state's principal witness, Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "big woman," who was out riding her mule in the vicinity on the night of the murder. She owned a farm some distance away. She said she saw several persons near the crabapple tree, saw one man with a flashlight, saw a woman, too, heard shots—and then she fled. If her story is correct, the murders were committed there in the lane.

Many Automobile Tracks

Many automobile tracks were found in a nearby lane. Over the minister's face his Panama hat had been placed as if to shield it; over the woman's face her brown silk scarf was found.

The bodies were parallel. Their heads were close together at the foot of a tree and their feet pointed toward the lane. The bodies lay face up and Dr. Hall's right arm was raised at right angles with his body, so that it lay under the woman's head.

A cartridge shell from a .32 caliber pistol was on the ground between the bodies. The other shells and the pistol with which the killing was done was missing, however.

Near the bodies was found a piece of steel, about two feet long, fashioned like a footrest from the running board of an automobile.

Witnesses told the authorities that they had seen a woman enter the side door of the Hall home in New Brunswick at 3 o'clock on the morning of Friday, September 15, a few hours after Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills were murdered.

Hall. She admitted it was her. This woman proved to be Mrs. She explained that she became alarmed at the failure of her husband to return home one Thursday night and that she went to his study in the Protestant Episcopal church of St. John the Evangelist to look for him.

Bill Grimm's Progress H.C. WITWER

Copyright, 1926, by Collier's Weekly and G. P. Putnam Sons.
"Bill Grimm's Progress" is a pictorialization by Film Booking Office of America, Inc. (F. B. O.) of H. C. Witwer's stories of the same name.

SYNOPSIS
Barbara Baxter, a federal detective who has caught Jack Fairfax, a wealthy bouncer, red-handed in his bootlegging operations, influences Bill Grimm, a rural taxi-driver who has helped her, to go to New York to seek his fortune. Fairfax tries to involve Pansy Pilkington, a friend of Bill's seeking stage fame, in his shady operations. He has Bill beaten up by Tierney, a "bruiser," and Bill trains at Butch Ford's gymnasium and knocks Tierney out. Barbara encourages him to become a great prize-fighter.

"It's all right. It ain't Dempsey Butch answers. 'His name is in figures is Eddie Thomas—a little rate palooka which you should bounce in a round or two.' Glimp him a nasty look and he'll take count of nine! Does that tell you enough?"

"It tells me too much!" I say coldly. "I'm not going to fight a pushover, Butch, for pennies, pouts or pudding!"

Well, the argument got hot and hotter. Left Hook O'Brien declared himself in and pretty soon the indignant room clerk called in from downstairs and told us the proper place to stage a race was on a vacant lot. But I was on my point, and two days later against the advice of Butch O'Brien and even Shifty Jones, I was to get twelve hundred bucks for displaying my wares, win, lose or draw or what have you?

Right after that I made one of the biggest mistakes in a lifetime just cluttered with errors. To the dismay of Butch and my other friends, I started to duck my training and clowning when I did show up at Butch's. I'd begun to find the daily conditioning routine tiresome, and being mistaken for Nami running through Central Park in the early morning made me feel like a sap.

Whenever the fancy struck me I operated my taxi at nights or noon around with Barbara Baxter—theatre, dancing, auto rides and what not. Sometimes I got to bed early and sometimes it was different. I was happy and care free and thought I was the kitten's velvet peder!

One Sunday, it being the first chance I got, I looked up Pansy Pilkington at the address I took me over the head with the bucket, and very few of 'em tries that."

When I got back to the inn where I was parking with Butch Ford and Left Hook O'Brien I was dumfounded to find Jack Fairfax waiting for me in the lobby. It was all I could do to keep from knocking this inveterate cheater as stiff as a dress shirt!

When Barbara Baxter caught Jack peddling hooch at the Falls I paid his $2,000 fine as I felt responsible for the pinch through Barbara having mesmerized me into helping her. This eighteen carat villain rated plenty of jail, but it's a hobby of mine not to have my personal accounts settled by the law. He still owed me a balance of eight hundred bucks on the two grand I staked him for, and I started to angrily ask him for it when he cut me off.

"Here's the eight hundred I owe you, Grimm," he says, pulling a fat roll of bills from his pocket. "You'll find an additional hundred in that roll—call it interest on the loan."

"I'm not in the loan shark game," I says, handing him back the extra hundred and slipping the other eight yards in my kick. "If you got so much sugar you might lose that century to Pansy Pilkington. The kid's probably not very fluent with money and could use it right now."

He laughed nastily. "Pansy will never lack a cavalier while 'you're in the office, will she?" he asked, and took a quick step backward. "Then he seen my face harden. 'I like a receipt in full. If you don't 'td,' he winds up hurriedly, and—'so your promise that you and the M's Baxter will stop hounding me!'"

"Take what you get!" I snapped back. "All the grief you been having is your own fault. Why—'You sound like a movie!' he sneers. 'May I trouble you for that receipt?'"

I walked over to the desk and wrote it out on a hotel card. Then I got Pansy's address from him and left him flat.

I'd scarcely got up to my room when Butch Ford and Left Hook O'Brien rushes in, all excited.

"You're as hard to find as a rooster with a toothache!" Butch complains. "I been lookin' all over for you. We fight in three weeks, Big Boy!"

"That's a pay-off!" I says sarcastically. "So we fight, hey? You're coming in the ring with me the next time?"

"Be your weight!" snorts Butch, while O'Brien chuckles. "I want you in the hay early tonight, because you're goin' to be up at 5 tomorrow mornin' doin' road work."

"Have you got any serious objections to telling me who I'm going to box?" I asked him. "Or is it a secret?"

"I—you—would you accept a loan from me, then, till you get on your feet?" I stammered.

At that her anger flickered out like a candle in a tornado. She smiled and held out her little hand. "No, Bill," she says softly. "Besides I am on my feet—all day and nearly all night! But many thanks, and I'll file your application for future reference. You never can tell!"

A KISS IN THE DARK

We met, quite by chance, in the moonlight;
'Twas thrilling—I 'most lost my head.

I searched for the words that I wanted to say,
For the moment, though, nothing was said.

'Twas out where the lane goes winding,
I'd thought I was there all alone,
And I know that surprise wasn't all, in my eyes,
She could see as her lamps brightly shone.

I was dazed for the moment; I couldn't believe
That we'd met, as we had, there, by chance;

Yet met there we had—I was giddy, aye, mad!
And she read it, I know, in my glance!
"Well, why don'tcha watch where you're goin'?"
I said.

An keep on your side o' the line?
But no! You're just dumb—now my wheel's on the bum
And I can't tell your fenders from mine!"

Eventually, when all our present population become office-holders, we shall have to admit more immigrants to pay the salaries.

Teacher—What do we use soap for?
Jimmie—That's what I'd like to know.

When in doubt, shave!

Sheffield And Aggies Boast Good Records For Year; Come Here Soon

When Sheffield Hi and the Athens Aggies step upon local grids Friday afternoon they will do so mindful of good records behind them so far this year. Neither team boasts of spotless record, but they have fighting aggregations that force opposition to the limit before a decision award is made.

The Athens Aggies have faltered before Moulton and Sheffield has faltered before the Aggies, the latter game having been the first of the year for the Sheffield lads. The Aggies have been marching through opposition consistently and present a lineup of raw men who are able to tackle. They will outweigh the Decatur eleven, but they have no outstanding backfield threat with which to menace Decatur flanks, or break through the Decatur line.

The Decatur game is called for three o'clock at Riverside park and is expected to command attention of sport followers of the school and cities.

Over in Albany there will be waged one of the warmest combats seen this year. Sheffield and Albany have taken a disliking to one another when they don football togs. Sheffield did its best to upset the 1923 combination, the best that Albany Hi ever placed on the football field, which was only natural, but the Colbert lads learned then that Albany Hi was out after them and the two have been gunning ever since. Friday afternoon Sheffield will come here a slight favorite, owing to the Albany Hi apparent let down in the Falkville tilt. Albany Hi displayed an ability to fight in that game until the last half and then things took a turn for the worse and the local patient did not recover.

The Albany game will be started earlier this week, provided the Sheffield team makes the trip by automobile which is entirely likely. The game is scheduled for three o'clock. To begin at a later hour will mean that the teams must battle in the dark during the last quarter and that isn't highly favored by coaches, owing to the bag of tricks each suspects the other to show.

Determination of the local teams to go through the remaining schedule without blemish is one of the bright spots seen by coaches as the Thanksgiving date moves closer, but remaining games appear to be just as tough as the games at the start, so then the local aspirants will have to present something other than good wishes if they hope to maintain a strength back of their determination to win.

Regulars have only gone through light workouts this week at Albany Hi, apparently not admiring the cooler breezes of November afternoons. An epidemic of boils may keep some of the regulars out of the Friday tilt.

Spirit in the Decatur team has never been at a higher peak, the lads, encouraged after their defeat of Fairview Vocational, have been breaking records for hard work in preparation for the Aggie tilt.

School officials today asked that the public show a support for the efforts high school boys are putting forth in trying to place their schools on a solid athletic footing. Few games remain before the season goes into history and the public is reminded of a duty to the boys in attempting to blaze the names of Albany and Decatur high upon the football emblem.

Girl Scout's Duty Is To Be Useful

This is the third scout law and is a very important one. It means that if it is a question of being a help to the rest of the world, or a burden on it, a Girl Scout is always to be found among the helpers. The simplest way of saying this for very young scouts is to tell them to do a good turn daily that is, to be a giver and not a taker. The more a scout does the more she sees to do. Some people seem to think that doing a simple act of courtesy is a good turn but a Girl Scout laughs at this idea for she knows that these things are expected of all decent people.

This is the spirit that makes the older scout into a fine, useful, dependable woman who does so much good for her community that every one is proud of her.

Many Prepare To Attend Battle

Quite a few parties will leave late Friday and early Saturday for Birmingham to witness the Alabama-Kentucky game. Members of high school elevens, worshippers of the Crimson, are planning to leave after Friday afternoon battles. Large numbers of people who have been waiting for this game are now reveling in anticipation of seeing two of the best teams in the South clash.

KENTUCKY STRONG IS CRIMSON VIEW

Winslett To Bark Signals For Team This Week

UNIVERSITY, Ala., Nov. 3.—Alabama's undefeated Crimson Tide will meet an eleven of strength this coming Saturday in the powerful Wildcat outfit of Kentucky and the Crimson coaches are taking great pains to bolster the running attack of the Crimson brigade to meet the onslaught of the Blue-Grass boys.

The Tide won their struggle against Louisiana State mainly because of the defensive power of Eddie Pinkard, who locked two punts that netted the Tide a touchdown each time, and the sterling work of Winslett, Caldwell, and Brown. There was no sensational game but a steady battering of the Louisiana tackles and ends for consistent gains. It was the fifth conference victory of the Tide and it left them with three hard games yet in their path. And at this time the hardest of the trio is against Kentucky.

Young "Wu" Winslett, Alabama's defensive end and offensive threat, has been given charge of the running of Alabama's team. This, naturally, has caused Caldwell to be shifted to end offense sively in many plays, but it has also bettered the Crimson's running attack in some respects. It leaves much of the worry of running the team off Captain Barnes' shoulders and the red-topped lad showed it against Louisiana State. Winslett, just about the clearest-thinking man on the squad, is the possessor of much football sense in every respect.

Alabama's Tide started work early Monday afternoon so as to reach the peak of condition for the Kentucky eleven.

The Tide faces one of the hardest tasks of the season in stopping the Kentucky outfit in Birmingham Saturday. The Wildcats tied the strong Virginia Poly eleven this past Saturday and have been pointing for the Alabama game all season. Crushing defeats in the past by the Tide have left a great yearning in their mind to trim the Tide and that great yearning will be the object of their every move Saturday. And when inspired footballers play, well, anything might happen.

Alabama came out of the Louisiana State with no injuries to tell and should be in the best of condition Saturday.

Pepper-Tuck Are Watched Locally

Those local people who saw the Alabama-L. S. U. game of last Saturday were well pleased that Raymond (Hot) Pepper, local youth, got into the game. They saw some flaws in the big fellow's attack, but look upon him as solid material for next years Crimson. Local people are likewise watching the records made by the flying cleats of Floyd Tuck, another Albany-Decatur product. Tuck recently ran 60 yards to a touchdown, thus increasing local hopes that he will be classed in a few years among Alabama's greats.

Folks in this section of the woods confidently expect to see Pepper and Tuck on the same Tide, though Pepper may get through and enter the school of experience before Tuck gets his chance at Crimson glory.

Sunday School Lesson By Radio

The Sunday school teachers of St. Paul's Lutheran church will vary their training program during the month of November by receiving part of their instruction by radio from the Lutheran Radio-casting station KFUD at St. Louis, Mo.

In addition to their regular lesson work the teachers have been studying the gospel of Mark. The lessons by radio will deal with Philipians, taught by Dr. P. E. Kretzmann, well-known Sunday school authority.

It is believed that the local Lutheran church stands quite alone in requiring regular training of its Sunday school teachers and the newly adopted plan to receive training by radio certainly is unique.

The November meetings will be held at the home of Paul Buettner.

A straw vote is worth just about as much as the straw.
